Universal Vaccinations

“Conventional wisdom” is based on confusion and disinformation. It has a crowding-out effect in our thought processes, and inquiry is stifled. In other words conventional wisdom programs us to reject any information or thought not in harmony with our preconditioning and experience. It is called cognitive dissonance.

Conventional wisdom is what everybody knows. It is the controlled media, and sadly this includes most private publications and newsletters.

Human liberty and personal survival in our time must originate in truth no matter how incredible and shocking to our conditioned minds. Governments control the public mind with disinformation and confusion. No modern government could exist for 24 hours if it told the people the truth.

The Bob Livingston Letter is dedicated to the truth no matter how unpopular or unbelievable. Those who study and read usually come to our conclusions. The problem is that people are at various stages of learning, and they must advance to a point where they can break through the parameters of thought control in America. At some point we must have a flash that maybe we don't know and maybe we are not getting the truth.

The trouble is that mind control does not discriminate between the highest intelligence quotient and the street sweeper. The Philadelphia lawyer is just as off in his basic information and assumptions as the downtown parking attendant. This fact is a monument to the science and power of mass mind control. From the highest to the lowest in America, they don't know that they are unaware. These are they who are immune and even hostile to probes of inquiry beyond their credibility.

In past letter, especially in 1995, we have discussed the money (credit) monetary system of the United States and the world. Believe me, it is not conventional wisdom, and it will shock you, the great and the small.

In a few words, money creation (money creation is credit creation) is the exclusive monopoly of the central bank. All wealth flows to the creators of credit. But a credit creation monetary system cannot exist without regulation. Regulation is absolutely essential in all areas of life. In America do we have regulation?

Specific for this discussion is the subject of population regulation of population control. A credit-based monetary system will break down if it gets more consumers than producers. As our population gets older and “top heavy,” consumption exceeds production. And through welfare and social security payments, wealth reverses from the money (credit) creators to the consumers or nonproducers. This cannot be allowed over time.

Therefore ways, benevolent ways of course, must be found to get us to expire when we retire. We have many population control mechanisms in place, including mass medication with drugs and fluoride in our drinking water.

One of the most sinister and disguised population controls is mass vaccinations. When our children are vaccinated, there is a percentage that die as a result, and many are disabled in various ways for life. However, the most insidious part of it is the development of degenerative diseases much later in life, say about in the fifties and early sixties, at about retirement age. There is an excellent and shocking presentation on this in the tape series by Dr. Eva Lee Snead titled Vaccines, Cancer, AIDS & Genocide.

Now the government in bipartisan chorus is in an urgent mode to pass laws to require mandatory vaccinations and at the same time register and track all children from birth. Universal vaccination is a government agenda not of “democrat” or “republican” origin. The goal is forced vaccinations of all, including adults. What a bonanza to the pharmaceutical trust! Public disclosure of reactions and deaths due to vaccinations will be hushed.

Summary

Mass vaccination is a population control system based on the cold reality of the survival of the money (credit) creation monopoly that rules the world. Older consumers will and must die. The push for universal vaccinations is not ideological fantasy. It is cold-blooded conspiracy to control population. When you understand the money system, you will know for certain why population control has now changed from an urgency to a priority of the establishment.

There are many knowledgeable people who are against compulsory vaccinations simply because it is a violation of medical freedom. But the problem goes much deeper. It is at the heart of the survival of the system.
